

Anthony F. (Toby) O'Brien is vice president of Finance and chief financial officer (CFO) for Raytheon Integrated Defense Systems (IDS). In this role, he is responsible for providing focus and leadership to various strategic initiatives at IDS, along with improved effectiveness and efficiency of the organizational structure — and assisting in areas of governance, supply chain and international growth. He also works with the IDS financial team to align near-term and future financial objectives.

Raytheon Company, with 2008 sales of $21.3 billion, is a technology leader specializing in defense, homeland security and other government markets throughout the world. With headquarters in Waltham, Mass., Raytheon employs 73,000 people worldwide.

Integrated Defense Systems is Raytheon's leader in Joint Battlespace Integration providing affordable, integrated solutions to a broad international and domestic customer base, including the U.S. Missile Defense Agency, the U.S. Armed Forces and the Department of Homeland Security.

Biography

Prior to his current position, O'Brien was Raytheon vice president of Finance, and was the senior finance executive responsible for Raytheon Airline Aviation Services and Raytheon's International Landed Companies. He also provided operational finance support to Raytheon's businesses.

O'Brien joined the corporate finance team in August 2006 after serving as vice president, CFO at Raytheon Aircraft since 2002.

Before that he was vice president and CFO at Raytheon Aircraft Integration Systems since January 2000.

O'Brien joined Raytheon's Finance Leadership Development Program in 1986 after receiving a Bachelor of Science degree from Boston College. Upon completion of the program, he held numerous finance positions of increasing responsibility with several of Raytheon's larger business units.