Warrior Training Alliance announces team for U.S. Army Warfighter FOCUS bid

ORLANDO, Fla., Oct. 10, 2006 – The Warrior Training Alliance (WTA) has assembled a team of industry leaders that is currently pursuing the U.S. Army Program Executive Office, Simulation, Training, and Instrumentation (PEO STRI) Warfighter Field Operations Customer Support (FOCUS) program.

“We will go anywhere in the world, at any time, to provide warfighters the training they need to ensure victory and a safe return home – today and in the future,” said WTA Vice President and Program Manager Mike Edwards. “The WTA has a solution and a vision. We are committed to providing first-class training support to prepare troops for the wide range of threats they may encounter.”

With proven and demonstrated experience in live, virtual and constructive domains, the WTA’s large team of training solutions providers includes: Cubic Corporation; L-3 Communications Titan Group; Science Applications International Corporation; Defense Training Systems Support LLC; MPRI, Inc., an L-3 Company; Oberon Associates; and UNITECH, as well as more than 20 additional premier small businesses.

“WTA will work closely with PEO STRI to provide the warfighter with life-cycle contractor support services for training and training devices worldwide,” continued Edwards. “The WTA is committed to delivering a sound and comprehensive solution to integrate the full spectrum of training services for the soldier, while offering significant cost savings to the government.”

Established by Raytheon Technical Services Company LLC (NYSE: RTN) and Computer Sciences Corporation (NYSE: CSC) to pursue Warfighter FOCUS, the Warrior Training Alliance (WTA) comprises companies dedicated to providing integrated training support to the warfighter.
