

Ohad Katz

Head of Contracts & Supply Chain

Ohad Katz is the Head of Contracts & Supply Chain for Raytheon Australia.

Ohad is responsible for the functional management of contracts and supply chain across all Raytheon Australia operations.

This includes overarching responsibility for the company's commercial and contracting strategy, the development and negotiation of commercial agreements, proposal preparation and tender processes, commercial aspects of program execution, commercial risk management and the provision of commercial advice across the company.

Ohad is an experienced commercial lawyer with a background in contract management and government procurement policy, intellectual property and commercial matters. He has significant experience in developing innovative commercial solutions, drafting commercial agreements and negotiations for complex programs.

He has served as a member of the Australian Government's Strengthened Export Controls Steering Group, and various sub-committees addressing the implementation of the Australian Defence Trade Controls Act.

Ohad works with Raytheon Australia's customers and in industry forums to support the development and implementation of initiatives for the improvement of Government procurement processes and templates.

Prior to joining Raytheon Australia, Ohad practiced as a commercial lawyer with the Australia Government Solicitor specialising in government contracting, intellectual property and technology contracts.

Ohad has worked for the Office of Asset Sales and Information Technology Outsourcing and held positions within the Department of Defence's Contracts Organisation. Ohad was also assistant manager and financial controller for private light engineering company, Henry Engineering Co.

He holds a Master of International Law from the Australian National University, a Bachelor of Commerce (Finance) and Bachelor of Law from the University of New South Wales, a Graduate Diploma in Strategic Procurement from Deakin University, a Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice from the University of Technology, Sydney and is admitted as a solicitor of the Supreme Court of New South Wales.
